The article recalls most of the requirements to understand the main results. From: Juan-Pablo Ortega [Vista Email] [V1] Wed, 31 August 2005 07:37:28 GMT (21 KB) Vector bundle of cotangent space at each point in a collector in mathematics, in particular the differential geometry, the beam Cotente of a smooth manifold is the vector beam of all the cotent space in each point in the collector. It can be described as the double beam to the tangent beam. This can be generalized to categories with more facilities of smooth manifolds, such as complex collectors, or (in the form of cotangent sheaf) algebraic variety or patterns. In the smooth case, any metric or simplectic form Riemannian gives an isomorphism between the cotent beam and the tangent beam, but I am not in general isomorphs in other categories. Formal definition See also: Cotangent bundle  $T^*M$ , Construction through a diagonal morphism is a smooth manifold and leave the Cartesian product of  $M$  with itself  $M \times M$ . The mapping  $\Delta$  diagonale sends a point  $p$  in  $M$  to  $(p, p)$ .
