In addition, in 2011 an equipment guide was published "The catalog Smith & Robards". The caninec and basic scenario is known as the "Extra West" due to the juxtaposition of the Western stage with the horrible and fantastic elements of the game. However, reckoners cannot enter directly into the kingdom of the earth unless the general level of fear of the entire planet becomes high enough. In 2009, the first of these campaigns, The Flood was launched. As much as a Doontown spin-off and Deadlands, we used many of the same factions. The history of the Weird West is identical to the history of the real world, until July 3, 1863. The first instance of this occurred on July 4, 1863, in the place of the battle of Gettysburg that had just ended; Dead soldiers from both sides of the conflict rose from the battlefield and began to attack the surviving soldiers and civilians indiscriminately. False chips can be spent for bonds in the game, as bonus dice to use during Rolls or prevention of the physical damage. System Deadlands presents a musical way of creating game characters for the game. The American Civil War crawls thanks to the machinations of the careful recipients, and the PAIS remains divided into US and confederated sections along with "disputed territories." Federal agents and Texas rangers fight to deal with Eldritch threats while hiding the horrible truth of the public in general. Rolle the number more possible in any of the dice is known as "rolling an ace", and that one can reach again, and the total is added to the initial value. However, the posterior supplements expanded the adventures of adventures in the game to include places such as the deep south, the Río Mississippi, Xico and the northeast of the United States.
